
olevia 1080p lcds OT HDTV Recs.

Posted by Schmedley - 2008/05/05 19:05

It is almost time to get our bonus pursuant to the HDTV Acquisition Act of 2008. And I am itching to press the checkout button. I am sure this will perk up the manufacturing sector - of Japan. So is there any brands to avoid? We are looking at a 50 inch plazma panasonic, but the W thinks it is too big, so I an probably dropping back to the new 46 inch. There will now be 10000 posts from some purveyor of fake plazma TVs.

=====

olevia 1080p lcds OT HDTV Recs.

Posted by John_Brian_K - 2008/05/05 19:05

It is almost time to get our bonus pursuant to the HDTV Acquisition Act of 2008. And I am itching to press the checkout button. I am sure this will perk up the manufacturing sector - of Japan. So is there any brands to avoid? We are looking at a 50 inch plazma panasonic, but the W thinks it is too big, so I an probably dropping back to the new 46 inch. There will now be 10000 posts from some purveyor of fake plazma TVs. I am not a big TV connoisseur, but my Mitsubishi is doing fine. Projection HD 1080i, 63 and I am really enjoying it. I have had no problems so far. When I have a signal that is 1080i (basically only blue ray which I have with my PS3) 740i is the signal I get most of the time with my HD TV stations and the picture is REALLY nice. The sound sucks BIGTIME, but if you have surround you will not use the sound anyway. Good luck.

=====

olevia 1080p lcds OT HDTV Recs.

Posted by MrBookworm - 2008/05/05 19:05

So is there any brands to avoid? We are looking at a 50 inch plazma panasonic, but the W thinks it is too big, so I an probably dropping back to the new 46 inch. How far are you sitting from it? The wife is probably wrong. I own two large plasmas. I have a 50 Pioneer 1080i that is 2 years old and wonderful. I watch that one from about 8 feet away and wouldn't want a 42. I just bought a 58 Samsung 1080p that I watch from 10 feet away. The Panasonic 58 was my preference, but I got a smoking deal on the Samsung so price swayed me. Both Panasonic and Samsung get good reviews at avsforum.com. When you mount them on the wall bigger seems to be better. Dean looking for a better newsgroup-reader? - www.recgroups.com

=====

olevia 1080p lcds OT HDTV Recs.

Posted by arlo payne - 2008/05/05 19:05

It is almost time to get our bonus pursuant to the HDTV Acquisition Act of 2008. And I am itching to press the checkout button. I am sure this will perk up the manufacturing sector - of Japan. So is there any brands to avoid? We are looking at a 50 inch plazma panasonic, but the W thinks it is too big, so I an probably dropping back to the new 46 inch. There will now be 10000 posts from some purveyor of fake plazma TVs. Take a hard look at: 3D DLP The way of the future _____ Block Lists, Favorites, and more - <http://www.recpoker.com>

=====

olevia 1080p lcds OT HDTV Recs.

Posted by KookieMonstr - 2008/05/05 19:05

It is almost time to get our bonus pursuant to the HDTV Acquisition Act of 2008. And I am itching to press the checkout button. I am sure this will perk up the manufacturing sector - of Japan. So is there any brands to avoid? We are looking at a 50 inch plazma panasonic, but the W thinks it is too big, so I an probably dropping back to the new 46 inch. There will now be 10000 posts from some purveyor of fake plazma TVs.

* New Release: RecPoker.com v3.0 - <http://www.recpoker.com>

